Fishbowl Is Now Accessible Anywhere

Fishbowl Anywhere (FBA) is a plugin that lets you gain access to Fishbowl Manufacturing or Fishbowl Warehouse online. Install the Fishbowl Server on a desktop computer and set up the FBA plugin and then you’ll be able to simply open a Web browser on a laptop, smartphone, tablet, or other device and get instant access to the full functionality of Fishbowl.

This is the real deal. Everything you can do on the desktop version of Fishbowl, from generating sales orders to tracking shipments, you can now do on the road or wherever you might be.

Here are four scenarios in which Fishbowl Anywhere would be extremely useful to a business:

1. A salesperson is out in the field, and they want to check the quantity of products they have in stock and then record sales to start the order fulfillment process quickly.

Fishbowl Anywhere allows salespeople to get accurate inventory counts to ensure they have enough on hand to make good on their promises. They can also create sales orders to make sure their sales get entered into the inventory system as soon as possible. Then they can log in and check on the status of their orders at any time. No more guesswork or unnecessary delays. FBA makes salespeople’s jobs that much easier and more precise.
A warehouse manager is out sick or on vacation, and no one else has sufficient access rights to place an order or complete some other essential duty.

This is a simple problem to resolve with the help of Fishbowl Anywhere. Warehouse managers and other leaders who hold high-level access rights no longer have to be in the office to log in to Fishbowl and make updates. They can stay right where they are and use their smartphone or other device to complete important tasks. If someone is sick or out of town, they can put forth a little effort and still accomplish everything they need to do to keep things running smoothly back at the warehouse.

A company doing wholesale distributions needs to allow key clients to log in to their system and place product orders remotely.

Sellers that use Fishbowl can quickly and easily give any customer they choose the ability to log in and place orders using Fishbowl Anywhere. Because Fishbowl is now available on every Web browser and mobile device, customers can use the hardware they already have to access Fishbowl, based on the user rights they’ve been given, and update key information, place new orders and even schedule returns. The potential to increase sales and automate ordering processes are limitless by simplifying and speeding up what are generally mundane and labor-intensive processes.
A company works with third-party manufacturers and needs to allow them restricted access to certain parts of its inventory system.

Fishbowl’s user rights really shine here. When working with contractors or other third parties, a company needs to protect its valuable information while opening up enough to allow them to do their jobs. Fishbowl’s user rights restrict access to only those areas of the software that a company designates for each user. Thus, each user can access certain things without being exposed to data they would have no use for. This prevents confusion, data breaches, data-entry errors, and other potential problems. And, again, FBA makes it possible for outside users to access the software from afar.
